

Dental Implants in Midlands Smile Centres

If you have lost a tooth or teeth, have healthy gums and would like the most comfortable and natural looking solution, then dental implants may be ideal for you. When it comes to missing teeth, dental implants are arguably the best and most versatile treatment available.

There are two parts to a dental implant; a high quality false tooth which looks like the real thing and supporting titanium rod. The rod does the job of the root on a natural tooth and is inserted into the jawbone. Although this may sound like a slightly daunting operation, to a skilled dentist it is not complicated and many patients think the operation is nothing compared to the immensely positive impact it could have on their lives.

One of the most common reasons for choosing dental implants is to restore a smile and the confidence that goes with it. Teeth lost within a patient's visible smile can have an enormously detrimental effect on their self-confidence, not only can they look unsightly but they can also have an effect on speech. Teeth play an important role in the formation of sound, and it is not uncommon for patients with teeth gaps to whistle while talking. It's also not uncommon for patients to wrap their lips over their tooth line to cover the missing teeth, which also has an effect on speech. These problems are easily overcome with the use of dental implants.

Another problem reported by patients with missing teeth is that their eating experience has suffered. When a tooth is missing, it is easy for hard or sharp foods to be pressed against the exposed gum when the patient chews. Although a bridge can help with this, the gum line is known to shrink when a bridge is used. Bridges also place extra load on the adjacent teeth and make them harder to clean; over time, the teeth near the bridge tend to wear and eventually break creating a need for false teeth. All this can be avoided with dental implants, and patients often report that eating is a lot more enjoyable after the procedure.

Obviously these procedures are not always suitable for everyone and we are more than happy to talk to you in detail about this for free. If you decide that you would like an implant, then we will check to see if your gums are healthy enough to successfully take implants. If we think the operation is likely to be a success then one of our skilled dentists will carefully conduct the implant procedure using modern and proven techniques that minimize the risk of nerve damage.

We can't emphasise enough the importance of having this procedure performed by an experienced dentist with a history of successful dental implant procedures like our Birmingham Dental Implant Centres. Given the possible problems that can be caused by a botched operation, buying on price alone is not really a good idea. In the area of dental implants - experience matters and our Dental Implant Centres have over 27 years' experience and an excellent track record with dental implants in Birmingham.

If you choose to get your dental implants with us, then you will have the actual implant fitted by our specialist in either Kings Heath or Selly Oak. However, you can get the crown fitted and any after-care you need from any of our seven dental practices in Birmingham and Alcester. You will find it very difficult to find another dentist who has a better track record with dental implant procedures than our Birmingham Dental Implant Centres. We aim to keep our prices as competitive as possible and we offer a dental plan which makes this procedure even more affordable.
